Dear CEED Members –

Are you interested in learning how to be more innovative in offering experiential education programs at your university? If so, the CEED is offering a great workshop for you at this year's CIEC. The title of the workshop is "Harnessing entrepreneurship and value-creation models to innovate experiential education programs". Austin is the perfect location for this topic, as it recently ranked as the #1 city in the U.S. for startups by the Kauffman Foundation. Read below for more information . . .

Entrepreneurial mindsets are drivers in an ecosystem which creates innovation. This CEED workshop will build upon the conference theme, with a local flare, and apply Kauffman value-creation models to identify ways to innovate experiential education programs in higher education. This workshop will take participants through a hands-on process to apply tools, which can create a culture of resource-light, customer-centric, and iterative innovation relevant to their environments.

Michael Manning is an innovative and highly regarded educator and administrator who uses his experience as a corporate executive, entrepreneur, and consultant to develop and teach courses that enrich the classroom experience for students as well as connect executives and serial entrepreneurs to the Price College of Business at the University of Oklahoma, and to Arizona State University through the President's office.

#1 most innovative school in the country

U.S. News & World Report ranks ASU #1 on its "Most Innovative Schools" list, putting us in the company of such elite schools as Stanford and MIT. The ranking is based on a survey of college presidents, provosts and admission deans across the country. ASU is a leader in student entrepreneurship, knowledge delivery and student support services, and is continually developing new degrees in emerging fields.

The CEED workshop is being held on Tuesday, February 2 from 1:00 – 4:30 pm. I hope you plan to attend. If you have not yet registered for the CIEC, you can register for both the conference and the workshop online at <https://www132.pair.com/mmathews/asee/2016/>. If you have already registered for the conference and would like to add the workshop to your registration, please contact CIEC Registrar, Mike Mathews at JMikeMathews@gmail.com or Program Chair Sandra English at s.l.english@csuohio.edu.

Thanks for your support of CEED activities and see you in Austin.

Gayle Elliott

Requests

From Rob Rogers - Georgia Tech

Good morning! My manager wanted me to reach out to you to inquire if any of your programs have students create videos of their student reflections? If you do, how and where is that information housed/hosted, what is the format that you use in terms of length, do you allow students to view other students reflections? These are all questions being posed to him by the Vice Provost of Undergraduate Education. Any information you can provide me with would be helpful. Have a great day!

Gayle Elliott - our President would like everyone to take a close look at the following pages that lay out the structure of the board and committees of CEED. As you look them over make an effort to see what interests lie there for you.

CEED needs you, and your efforts could go far in making our organization all the more spectacular. Wouldn't you like to try? Take a look at what follows and take the plunge!

CEED Members:

- Have you attended the Conference for Industry and Education Collaboration (CIEC) but don't feel you know other members?
- Have you attended the ASEE Conference and felt like one unknown individual in a sea of engineering professionals?
- Are you interested in becoming involved with CEED events, activities and conferences but don't know where to begin?

This message is for you!

The ASEE CEED is looking for members interested in serving in a variety of positions in service to the Division. Below are descriptions of the positions which have ongoing needs

If you have not been involved with CEED in the past, you might not be ready to jump into a position like Chair-Elect or CIEC/ASEE Program Chairs. But you might be interested in serving on a committee or in the role of CIEC/ASEE Assistant Program Chairs. These positions will enable you to gain insight and expertise into a role with increased responsibility in the future.

We are soliciting names of members interested in serving in these roles. You've read this far!!!

Here is why one Board member got involved with CEED!!!

Anita Todd

“I would like to personally urge members to get involved in the CEED Board. Getting involved in the experiential learning community has been an important part of my career because I feel it is important to give back to my field. It is so rewarding to participate in activities that heighten our field and help develop our members. On a more personal note, I am so grateful for the many friendships I have made through involvement in field. I hope you will consider getting involved in the CEED Board. I am certain you will not regret it.”

See you next year . . .
